Television presenter Scott Tweedie has a fresh, fast-paced style that has propelled him into a career of diverse and popular programs across a broad demographic. Smart, quick witted and good looking, Scott's infectious charm has made him a prevalent fresh face in Australia and abroad.

Born in Brisbane, Scott's first taste of the entertainment industry was at radio network Nova 106.9 which acted as a springboard to his entry into television in 2009. Chosen out of six thousand entrants to become a face of ABC3 he then became the host of the hugely popular Prank Patrol. The success of the program saw Scott become a household name amongst the teen and tween market (ages 5-16 years) and lead to the program being picked up by BBC1 in Britain, further establishing Scott's international appeal.

After the success of Prank Patrol, Scott went on to host ABC3 youth shows, Splatalot, W.A.C (World Animal Championships) and 3 on 3, a nation-wide travel series.

In 2011, Scott began co-hosting channel ELEVEN's original Saturday morning music and entertainment program, The Loop. Airing for two and a half hours each week for the past three years, The Loop has proven to be a staple in the networks programming, continuing to attain audiences for over 100 episodes.

Scott has lent his hosting abilities to Event Cinemas, interviewing Hollywood's A-List elite and actors at red carpet film premieres and filming monthly hosting links for the latest film releases. He has also hosted large scale events with live audiences such as the Take 40 Live Lounge, the national Puma Glow Run, Trop Fest's Trop Jr. for five years running, Fun 4 Kids festival and St Kilda Festival to name a few.

Scott is also actively involved with Australian charity, Project Futures, who's focus is on stopping human trafficking both locally and abroad. He is an ambassador for the charity and lends his presenting and hosting abilities for events and promotional videos. Project Futures main component is 'Stella Fella' which promotes strong, positive male examples in the community, which Scott is heavily involved and personifies.

With his ever-expanding portfolio and increasing popularity with industry insiders and fans alike, Scott Tweedie has proven to have solid staying power in the entertainment industry. Scott's popularity is growing at equal speed in the digital realm. He is active on social media platforms, Twitter, Instagram, Facebook and Pinterest making him accessible and interactive to a global audience and generating a sizeable following.

Scott is available for hosting and MC opportunities, for all enquiries contact 6 Degrees Management.
